

Hospitality At Its Finest

The Guest House at McLeod has served more than 17,000 families from 49 states and nine countries during the past 14 years.

Giving is powerful, yet it is even more special when it allows an individual or company to not only give a gift to others but also provide comfort and assistance to many more.

Each holiday season at McLeod, donors of the McLeod Health Foundation are able to participate in a unique fundraiser for the Guest House at McLeod. The project involves pecans, a traditional holiday favorite treat that represents southern hospitality. The purchase of a wide variety of tins, trays or boxes of delectable pecans allows Foundation donors to give them as gifts to family, friends and business associates while also helping to provide a home away from home for families in crisis.

The Guest House at McLeod provides families comfortable accommodations with a warm home environment, while their loved ones are receiving treatment at McLeod Regional Medical Center. Since its opening in 1995, the facility and services available at the McLeod Guest House have been made possible entirely by charitable gifts to the McLeod Foundation.

The only facility of its kind in the region, the Guest House at McLeod is located on Cheves Street, directly across the street from the medical center. Thanks to the generosity of donors, the comfort, convenience and peace of mind that make up the Guest House experience is available to out of town family members when they need it most.

The power of southern hospitality during the holidays is providing a gift that continues to give all year long to family members in need of a safe haven during their loved one's hospitalization.
