McLeod Health Introduces New Administrative Residents

Ryan Anderson

Ryan A. Anderson, MHA, and William “Mac” Gandy have joined McLeod Health as Administrative Residents. The McLeod Administrative Residency program prepares individuals for a career in healthcare with a focus on continuous improvement.

During the nine to 12-month program, the residents serve as part of the leadership team and are exposed to numerous departments within the McLeod Health system to learn healthcare operations. They also report directly to Rob Colones, President and CEO of McLeod Health.

Anderson joined the residency program in June 2020. He completed a Master of Healthcare Administration degree at Georgia Southern University in May 2020. Anderson also has a bachelor of science in biology from Georgia Southern. Prior to entering the residency program at McLeod, Anderson served as a Support Services Administrative Intern at

William “Mac” Gandy

Duke University Hospital in 2019. Since 2018, he has continued to work as a Graduate Assistant and Teaching Assistant for the Office of Leadership and Community Engagement at Georgia Southern. Anderson is a member of the American College of Health Executives and Upsilon Phi Delta Society.

On his recent arrival at McLeod, Anderson said, “This residency has been a wonderful opportunity for me to expand my horizons while creating positive change within the organization. I have enjoyed meeting the numerous friendly faces at McLeod while learning about all there is to offer in a healthcare system of this size. I look forward to the upcoming months and the possibilities that are in store.”

Gandy began his residency at McLeod in February 2020. A graduate of Clemson University with a bachelor of arts in history, he is currently pursuing a Master of Public Administration at Clemson. A native of Florence, Gandy serves as a Youth Ministries Intern at First Presbyterian Church. He is also a member of the Clemson University Golf Club and History Club.

“I am very thankful for the opportunity to be an Administrative Resident at McLeod Health,” said Gandy. “This position has allowed me to learn more about the organization, build meaningful relationships, and serve the community that I love. I appreciate the kindness that has been displayed by everyone I have met here so far, and I appreciate their willingness to help me learn more about the organization and healthcare administration as a whole. I am looking forward to the future and seeing the ways that McLeod Health will continue to serve communities in this region.”

As Administrative Residents, Anderson and Gandy follow a structured plan that takes into consideration their healthcare experience, educational background, and the needs of the organization. Responsibilities of the residency include active participation in assigned improvement work; completion of projects as directed by their preceptor; and progress reports to senior leadership on a routine basis. They also assist with management of internal and external assessments to help determine opportunities for improvement within McLeod Health.

Recent Administrative Resident Joins McLeod Health Team

Evan Rabon

Evan Rabon has been hired by McLeod Health as a Process Manager for Operational Effectiveness. He joins the McLeod team following completion of the McLeod Administrative Residency.

Rabon served as a Resident from May 2019 to May 2020. A graduate of Coastal Carolina University with a bachelor of arts in history, Rabon recently completed a Master of Business Administration at Coastal Carolina. He was also a kicker/punter for the Coastal Carolina football team from 2015 to 2018.

A native of Timmonsville, Rabon studied national intelligence and security/history in Greece and Cyprus in 2017. He has also completed mission work in Veracruz, Mexico; Seattle, Washington; Dublin, Ireland and Denver, Colorado.

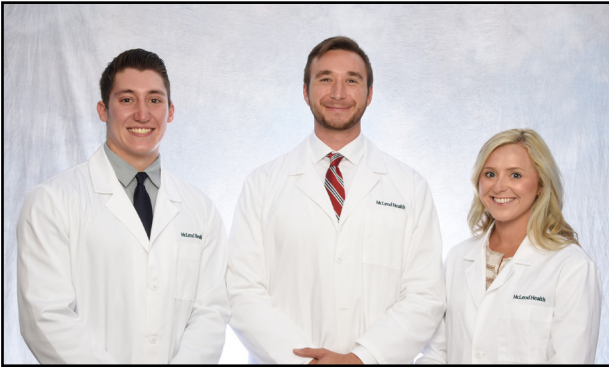

As part of his work in Operational Effectiveness, Rabon has earned the Lean Six Sigma Yellow Belt Certification. Operational Effectiveness is designed to eliminate waste through a systematic approach of understanding what the patient values and how best to deliver that service in the most efficient process. In his role as Process Manager, Rabon is trained to develop better processes that enhance the services and outcomes of McLeod.

On his completion of the administrative residency at McLeod, Rabon said, “The residency has taught me there are many people who contribute to creating the patient experience. The experiences from my residency and the people that I was able to work with along the way, gave me the insight to better understand the complexity that comes with creating the patient experience. I believe that this residency has given me understanding and awareness to always put the patient first.”

Rabon is also honored to have joined the McLeod team full-time. “My mother was a patient at McLeod before passing away in September of 2014 to breast cancer. For me to be able to have the opportunity to work with the organization that cared so well for my mother in her final year is very personal to me. Being local to Florence, South Carolina, I realize the impact that McLeod has on the community and to be a part of that is something bigger than myself.”

McLeod Health Seacoast teams celebrate the recent milestone of admitting 100 patients.

McLeod Health Seacoast recently celebrated a milestone by admitting 100 patients. The new patient tower at the hospital increased the bed capacity from 50 to 105 beds which was greatly needed as the previous facility had been running at or near capacity. Congratulations to all of the staff for transforming the delivery of health care in northern Horry County.

McLeod Health Seacoast recently named Laurie Edwards, a staff nurse in the Intensive Care Unit, as the July DAISY Award Recipient for McLeod Loris Seacoast. She was nominated by a patient's spouse for her extraordinary care and compassion.

On the nomination form for Edwards, the patient's husband wrote, "Laurie was outstanding at the way she treated her patients with professionalism and care. "Laurie is outstanding with the patients and families who have given us the opportunity to care for them," said Sherrill Nielson, Chief Nursing Officer at McLeod Health Seacoast. "The McLeod Health system is fortunate to have Laurie as part of this amazing nursing team."

McLeod Nurse-Family Partnership Receives Donation from Chesterfield County First Steps

Nateya Gary, a first-time mother and Nurse-Family Partnership client, reads to her infant child, Yahana, as part of First Steps' "Start with a Book" literacy campaign for young children under the age of five who live in Chesterfield County. Chesterfield County First Steps recently reached out to Sarah Griggs, RN, BSN, to distribute the age-appropriate children's books to her clients in the McLeod Nurse-Family Partnership program.

The McLeod Nurse-Family Partnership (NFP) recently received a generous donation of age-appropriate children's books for their clients and their children ranging in age from birth to age five, living in Chesterfield County. The donation was made possible by a grant from South Carolina First Steps to Chesterfield County First Steps to purchase books for young children in the area.

Chesterfield County First Steps contacted McLeod Nurse-Family Partnership Nurse Sarah Griggs, RN, BSN, to distribute the books to the program's at-risk new mothers, infants and young children to encourage literacy and to prepare them for school.

"Having strong connections in our community is a vital component in helping our McLeod Nurse-Family Partnership clients and their families succeed," said Griggs. "Chesterfield County First Steps has helped support the developmental growth and development of my clients' children by providing developmental toys and age-appropriate books over the last few years. This most recent donation of books will help ensure that even during a pandemic, our clients and their children have access to new books which promotes literacy and school readiness. We are deeply grateful for our partnership with First Steps."

The Nurse-Family Partnership, a nationally-recognized, evidence-based program for low-income, first-time mothers, serves mothers in Florence, Darlington, Dillon, Chesterfield, Marlboro, Clarendon and Sumter Counties. The three primary goals of the program are: to improve pregnancy outcomes, enhance child health and development and strengthen the economic self-sufficiency of the families it serves.
