ON THE COVER

Bill and Mindy Taylor feel blessed with the addition of their two-year-old grandson John Luke to the family. They have also seen firsthand the extraordinary benefit of having McLeod Children's Hospital in the region -- from the premature arrival of Bill's daughter Olivia nearly 40 years ago to the immediate care John Luke received in the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit shortly after his birth. The Taylors believe they are investing in the community through their donations to the McLeod Health Foundation and the Children's Hospital. Their story of improving care for others in need is featured on page 16.

ENDOWING HOPE

Giving Reaches Beyond Medical Care

For Dr. Rajesh Bajaj and his wife, Dr. Anu Chaudhry, providing hope to their patients goes well beyond medical treatment.

In 1995, these dedicated physicians began their life's work at McLeod Health. Dr. Bajaj, a medical oncologist, and Dr. Chaudhry, an OB/GYN, soon found that by supporting the McLeod Health Foundation, their gifts could provide critical resources for their patients while they were receiving care.

When the HOPE (Helping Oncology Patients Everyday) Fund was established in 2014, the two found a ideal match for their philanthropy. The HOPE Fund assists patients who face financial struggles that often accompany a cancer diagnosis.

Each day, Dr. Bajaj looks into the eyes of patients who carry weighty financial worries. He sees fear and concern over how they will afford their pain and nausea medications or pay this month's rent. He eases their anxiety by telling them the HOPE Fund is there to help.

"I could see my own patients being impacted by the HOPE Fund right away," he shared.

In 2017, recognizing the critical nature of services provided by donor gifts, the McLeod Foundation established the HOPE Fund Endowment.

The HOPE Fund Endowment ensures that if regular funding were ever interrupted, proceeds generated by the endowment could still provide for the most crucial services.

Upon learning of this new opportunity, Dr. Bajaj and Dr. Chaudhry committed to designate their own gifts to the HOPE Fund Endowment.

"I cannot do my job unless we care for the entire person," Dr. Bajaj explained. "It goes beyond the cancer diagnosis to all the ways a patient's life is impacted, such as issues obtaining medication, paying certain bills and even dealing with transportation problems. If the patient cannot get here for their care, we are unable to treat them."

Dr. Bajaj and Dr. Chaudhry are confident that by supporting and championing the HOPE Fund Endowment, they are ensuring hope for cancer patients in their time of need -- for many, many years to come.

By supporting the HOPE Fund Endowment, Dr. Rajesh Bajaj and Dr. Anu Chaudhry ensure the critical needs of cancer patients are met both now and in the future.

Giving and Serving Locally

Two Credit Unions Prioritize Children's Care

When donors like you give to ensure that the best healthcare is available locally, it is often with children and grandchildren in mind.

This is no different with local businesses.

Giving and serving their community has been the backbone of both SPC Credit Union and Health Facilities Credit Union (now SC Federal Credit Union) since their inception. When each learned about the opportunity to support a regional Children's Hospital expansion, they immediately felt it was a perfect fit.

Both are member-driven organizations. As such, supporting McLeod Health, the local medical center their members count on for care, is a focus of their giving.

"The driving force for this relationship is to keep money local," explained Linda Weatherford, President of SPC. "When we give to the McLeod Health Foundation, 100 percent of our money stays here. McLeod Health is constantly serving our friends, family and colleagues every day through the services they provide. We are very blessed to have this facility and the level of care McLeod offers."

Robert Harris, City Executive of SC Federal Credit Union, agreed.

Linda Weatherford, President and CEO of SPC Credit Union, and Robert Harris, City Executive of SC Federal Credit Union, tour the newly constructed McLeod Children's Hospital NICU.

"We have been involved with McLeod Health since 1977 when three local hospitals started Health Facilities Credit Union. Many McLeod employees were our members, so it has been a natural fit to give back to those we care for and serve every day. We are truly fortunate to have McLeod in a community of this size."

When the McLeod Foundation launched its campaign to expand McLeod Children's Hospital last year, these two credit unions wholeheartedly came on board. Many individuals and businesses throughout the region joined them, making commitments to support this most precious care.

Generous McLeod Foundation donors like you will join in celebrating the opening of the new, state-of-the-art Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU) in the Spring of 2021. This specialized care for the smallest and most vulnerable patients will be the latest achievement made possible through philanthropic efforts.

We are grateful for the support of SPC Credit Union, Health Facilities Credit Union and all who have made this loving care a priority.

A FOCUS ON GIVING

Young Couple Faces Cancer Scare by Giving Back

Josh and Morgan Pierce, pictured with their son Ryan, understand the importance of preparing for your family's future.

For Morgan Pierce, a newly hired Pharmacist at McLeod, giving a portion of her salary to help others through the McLeod Health Foundation came naturally.

At the time she began giving, she had no idea what her young family would face.

In 2019, Morgan and her husband, Josh, settled blissfully into family life with their new son, Ryan. Then, Josh began experiencing an unusual pain in his abdomen and back. The otherwise healthy 29-year-old teacher and football coach decided to consult his family physician Dr. Prakash Beeraka. Tests revealed frightening results.

Josh was diagnosed with a rare testicular cancer, which required immediate and aggressive treatment.

He was quickly referred to a team of physicians including Dr. Wayne Holley, Dr. Amy Murrell and Dr. Rajesh Bajaj.

As Josh experienced the side effects of chemotherapy, Morgan felt blessed that they had the ability to pay for his treatment as well as essential pain and nausea medications.

As a pharmacist working in the McLeod Cancer Center, Morgan knew this was not necessarily the case for all patients.

"I read the names of patients as their charts came across my desk each day, knowing that many had no insurance or the ability to pay for what they needed," Morgan recalled. "It was such a great relief to know that the HOPE (Helping Oncology Patients Everyday) Fund was there to bridge that gap for them."

In the midst of their journey, Morgan received a postcard in the mail from the McLeod Health Foundation about a new service available to donors: FreeWill.

GIFTS BY WILL Getting Started is Easier Than You Think

To make it straightforward and easy for you to begin writing your will, the McLeod Health Foundation has partnered with the organization FreeWill.

To start the process of creating your will at no cost to you, visit www.freewill.com/McLeodHealthFoundation.

FreeWill allows those who do not have a will to create one easily and for free. Morgan tucked the postcard away and vowed to come back to it later.

The following year, Morgan and Josh decided to create their will. Keeping with their desire to help others, they included the McLeod Foundation as a beneficiary.

"After walking through this cancer journey, we knew we needed a will, especially for our young son," Morgan shared.

As Josh continues to recover, the young couple has returned to their focus on helping others. This year, they joined the McLeod Foundation's young giving society, the Circle of Excellence, allowing them to give back to the hospital they love.

The Circle of Excellence

The Circle of Excellence, a young giving society of McLeod Health Foundation, is comprised of individuals and couples 45 and under who give $500 annually to the McLeod Foundation. This dynamic group funds specialized programs and services that benefit patients and their families at McLeod Health.

Banding Together as a Community

Corporate Support So Valuable for COVID-19 Care

Great communities come together during trying times. McLeod Health Foundation donors, like you, know this.

Robin Agnew, Bank of America's Market President for Myrtle Beach, understands this too.

Robin has witnessed the impact COVID-19 has had on the entire Grand Strand community. She has seen customers and neighbors require hospitalization, and her employees, who are considered essential employees, struggle to serve their customers in this new pandemic world.

"Our frontline financial workers are part of the glue that has kept this community together," Robin said. "I thank them every chance I get for their dedication."

Robin recognizes that a large part of keeping their employees and the community they serve safe during this healthcare crisis is having robust healthcare available locally.

"We are so grateful to have hospitals in our community who can accommodate us through this pandemic and help people when they get sick," Robin said.

This is why, in the early days of the pandemic, Robin and her local Bank of America office decided to support McLeod Health Loris Seacoast. Funds provided by Bank of America have been used to purchase crucial, state-of-the-art equipment to provide care for patients treated at McLeod Health Loris and McLeod Health Seacoast with severe cases of the virus.

"We brought our local leadership together to decide where our philanthropic funds should go," Robin explained. "Our team quickly agreed this was a worthwhile initiative. It is an honor and a privilege to help our community."

Bank of America's CEO has told its managers that, as needs in their local community arise, swift action must be taken to protect their most vulnerable communities. Robin knows that her company's gift to McLeod Health Loris Seacoast is doing exactly that.

"We are committed to helping our community partners as part of our COVID-19 response. And, McLeod is absolutely vital to the health of our community."

HELPING SICK CHILDREN THE OLD-FASHIONED WAY

Loyal Donor Remembers Why He Gives With Every Check He Writes

Twenty years ago, Stephen Love was driving home and listening to the radio. A voice came on asking listeners to donate during the annual Radiothon for McLeod Children's Hospital.

"They needed medical equipment, though I don't recall now the specific item," stated Stephen.

Regardless, he was inspired. The remainder of his drive home he thought about his diabetic grandson, who had been in and out of the McLeod Children's Hospital for much of his childhood. He also thought about his father, a Shriner, and traveling with him in the days before McLeod had a Children's Hospital to the Shriner's Hospital in Greenville to visit sick children.

"I called as soon as I got home," said Stephen.

After speaking with a Radiothon volunteer, he agreed to donate every month for one year. More than two decades later, he still makes a monthly gift supporting McLeod Children's Hospital.

"At this point, it is natural to send my gift on the 20th of each month," Stephen explained.

The McLeod Health Foundation offers donors the choice of mailing in a donation, making a gift online or setting up an auto-draft for recurring donations. Though there are many ways to give to the McLeod Foundation, Stephen prefers the old-fashioned method of writing a check each month.

"Every time I write that check, it makes me think about why I do it," said Stephen. "If the cause is worth giving to, it is worth thinking about."

When he picks up his pen each month on the 20th, in addition to his grandson -- who is now in his late 20s and doing well -- Stephen thinks about all the children who benefit from McLeod Children's Hospital.

"I offer a prayer of thanks that these kids get the care they need and deserve," said Stephen. "I hope whatever illness they had when they came to McLeod Children's Hospital, they do not have it when they leave."

Through the McLeod Health Foundation monthly giving program, Stephen Love continues to make an impact on the lives of children in the region who receive care at McLeod Children's Hospital.

GENEROSITY ARISES FROM PERSONAL EXPERIENCE

Local Business Owners Give Back

Jeff and Amy Martini hosted a special event called “Dine Out for Breast Cancer” to support breast cancer services at McLeod Health Loris Seacoast.

Acts of generosity and support often arise from intense personal experience.

Like many donors to the McLeod Health Foundation, this is true for Amy Martini and her husband Jeff. Amy’s journey with breast cancer had a tremendous impact on their family.

Amy diligently received regular mammograms beginning when she was 30 years old due to her family’s history with cancer. Sadly, she lost her beloved mother to breast cancer after a long battle.

Seven years ago, during a routine annual exam, Amy received the news she had feared the most. At age 45, she would begin her own frightening journey with breast cancer.

Amy immediately began a very aggressive treatment, which she completed in November 2020.

“You have to be aware because it can happen at any age,” Amy said.

Amy’s mother had been diagnosed four times with breast cancer, but none were detected early enough to save her life. Amy and her family are grateful for the regular screenings that allowed Amy’s cancer to be detected before it spread.

“This is part of my personal journey,” Amy passionately shared. “How can I not give back?”

This past October, in honor of breast cancer awareness month, Jeff and Amy hosted the first “Dine Out for Breast Cancer.” This month-long event at the couple’s restaurants, Midtown Bistro and Bar 19 Twelve, raised funds to support breast cancer services at McLeod Health Loris Seacoast.

“In spite of COVID-19 restrictions, the event was very successful, raising $30,000 in 30 days,” Jeff explained.

Amy and Jeff both admire the small-town appeal of North Myrtle Beach with its “big city atmosphere where everybody sticks together.” This was evident in the amazing results of this special event.

Following the success of the inaugural “Dine Out for Breast Cancer,” Amy and Jeff have committed to host the event annually. They know they can help increase awareness of preventative care by raising funds to support cancer services at McLeod Health Loris Seacoast.

By supporting “Dine Out for Breast Cancer,” individuals from all over the Grand Strand will help raise funds for cancer patients and their families.

Celebration Leads to Joyful Giving

Golden Anniversary Provides Hope

David and Gerri Barr value having McLeod Regional Medical Center a mere five minutes from their home. They recognized they could rely on McLeod Health if they were ever in need of excellent, life-saving care. However, they did not realize just how much they would need it.

The Barrs, both retired, spent their careers in the fields of higher education administration and speech pathology. In 2019, a series of health issues disrupted their best laid plans, and healthcare became their focus and priority.

David suddenly had to undergo two vascular procedures and was overwhelmed with the outstanding care he received at McLeod from Dr. Carmen Piccolo. While relieved to be on the other side of this health scare, he and Gerri found themselves returning to McLeod again a few months later.

After a visit to his primary care physician and initial testing, David was referred to McLeod Oncologist Dr. Jamie Smith who confirmed a diagnosis of colon cancer.

David then underwent surgery, performed by Dr. John Sonfield. After David’s recovery, Dr. Smith informed him that he would need both chemotherapy and radiation treatments.

David and Gerri Barr celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary by giving back to the McLeod Center for Cancer Treatment and Research.

Gerri felt grateful that David would be able to obtain state-of-the-art treatment five minutes from home.

“If we had to go out of town for his care, it would have been really hard. I cannot imagine having to travel hours back and forth for treatment every single day,” explains Gerri.

David’s completion of his cancer treatment coincided with another joyful family celebration. Kristen Barr, David and Gerri’s daughter, had planned a special 50th wedding anniversary celebration in honor of her parents.

“The doctors who worked with me during that year -- Dr. Piccolo, Dr. Smith and Dr. Sonfield -- truly inspired us to begin giving to the McLeod Health Foundation,” shares David.

As they discussed the upcoming event, the Barrs felt moved to direct their guests to donate to the Foundation supporting the McLeod Cancer Center in lieu of gifts.

“We were so delighted to have raised these important funds. We are confident that the Foundation will use these gifts to help those who are unable to afford all of the expenses that come with a cancer diagnosis,” said David and Gerri. “It is one small way we can give back to help others.”

HONORING HEROES

Turning Loss into Support Through Gratitude

Heroes often emerge during times of distress. This was particularly true during the country's recent healthcare crisis -- the COVID-19 pandemic.

For the family of the late David Trebil, comfort was found through genuine acts of gratitude for the heroes involved with his care.

To David, spending time outdoors working on his farm and being with his family meant everything to him.

It was difficult for such a vibrant man to be admitted to McLeod Health Clarendon with COVID-19. Restrictions on visitation during the pandemic made the situation even more challenging.

Allison Ridgeway, a McLeod Health Clarendon Intensive Care Unit Nurse, became the family's hero by providing constant updates and joking with David to keep his spirits lifted.

When his condition further deteriorated, David was transferred to the Coronary Care Unit at McLeod Regional Medical Center for more specialized care.

Carrie Trebil found comfort after the loss of her father to COVID-19 by honoring two compassionate nurses through the Healthcare Hero program.

"It was an emotional roller coaster from day to day," recalled his daughter Carrie Trebil.

Rebecca Eubanks, a Critical Care Nurse at McLeod Regional Medical Center, took up the hero mantle, sending updates and sharing the family's video messages daily to help encourage David.

As David started to improve, he was taken off the ventilator.

Carrie Trebil honored Nurse Rebecca Eubanks, pictured with her CCU co-workers, with a Healthcare Hero award for the care she provided to Carrie's father at McLeod Regional Medical Center.

Carrie recalls the day her father sat up in the bed and smiled. Rebecca took his picture and sent it to his family.

Unfortunately, four days later he took a turn for the worse and began to decline. David passed away with his treasured family by his side.

Carrie found comfort by honoring nurses Allison and Rebecca through the McLeod Health Foundation's Healthcare Hero program. This program allows grateful patients, their families and friends the opportunity to support patient services and programs at

McLeod Health while recognizing the exemplary care received from a McLeod "Healthcare Hero" provider.

"I felt the Healthcare Hero program was a way to help others, while at the same time recognizing Allison and Rebecca for caring for my Daddy when we could not," explained Carrie. "The level of compassion and respect from these two nurses warranted recognition. My hope was that this small gesture would lift their spirits as they continue to show kindness and provide quality care to others battling COVID-19"

GENEROUS GIFT CONTINUES LEGACY of Inspiration

Transforming Tragic Loss into Leading and Loving

A beloved nurse and respected leader at McLeod Health for 30 years, Kathy Sims devoted her life to caring for others.

Then, just a few months into the global pandemic, Kathy contracted COVID-19.

Her family said she fought for her life and, like everything else she did, she persevered with great courage.

Yet, COVID-19 unexpectedly took this dedicated servant on July 1, 2020.

Kathy's passing was a tremendous tragedy for the entire McLeod Health family and the communities it serves.

Dr. Gabe and Lisa Simpson of Cheraw, long-time McLeod Health Foundation supporters, share that the Lord led them to honor Kathy's memory by establishing the Kathy Smith Sims Endowed Nursing Scholarship.

Kathy had been a mentor to Lisa as she began her nursing career. The couple wanted their gift to continue Kathy's legacy of inspiration for nurses at McLeod.

"It was amazing to watch her ability to lead people," said Lisa. "She not only provided compassionate care to her patients, but she also offered love and care to her staff. She wanted to help everyone. I remember Kathy calling during a weekend shift to say if they needed help on the floor, she would come in to support them."

"She knew how to love people, have fun, be patient and hold her staff accountable," Dr. Simpson recalled. "Nursing leadership is hard, but Kathy had the natural ability to lead and love."

Kathy Sims' memory and her legacy of inspiring others is being honored by Dr. Gabe and Lisa Simpson with an endowed nursing scholarship.

Because of the Simpsons' generosity, Kathy's family designated all her memorial gifts in support of this scholarship. Their hope is that Kathy's legacy will shine through future nurses in our region.

"We are very thankful God gave us this opportunity to honor Kathy," Dr. Simpson explained. "We pray the nurses who receive this scholarship carry on Kathy's legacy by showing God's love and leadership."

To continue Kathy's legacy for nurturing future nurses, you can donate to the Kathy Smith Sims Endowed Nursing Scholarship by calling the McLeod Health Foundation at 843-777-2694.

Three Decades of Generosity

Loyal Supporters Continue Their Legacy of Giving

The McLeod Health Foundation joins with you, our loyal donors, in celebrating 35 years of philanthropy. Since our founding in 1986, supporters like you, through your continuous encouragement, have made three decades of generous patient support possible.

Dr. Ken Kammer, a retired Neurosurgeon, and his wife Judy are celebrating their own 35-year milestone, honoring their continuous and loyal support of the McLeod Foundation. In fact, they began supporting McLeod in 1982, before the Foundation's existence.

The Kammers have truly exemplified loyalty, defined as a strong feeling, devotion or faithfulness to a cause.

They moved from Phoenix, Arizona, to Florence, where Dr. Kammer established his neurosurgery practice.

Both were immediately impressed with the hospital's focus on quality and believed in the mission of McLeod to provide the highest level of care and service. Thus began their loyal support.

Not only have they contributed financially for the past three decades, but they have also dedicated their time and expertise to this important work.

Judy has been involved with the McLeod Foundation for 30 years in numerous capacities. In addition to her service as a Board member, Judy has played an integral role in various fundraising committees, campaigns and events, raising significant funds for the McLeod Foundation. Dr. Kammer focused on providing life-saving medical care to his patients. It was his passion to provide the very best healthcare possible.

"McLeod is a friendly family and shining star of healthcare for the patients of our region," stated Dr. Kammer.

The Kammers have demonstrated consistent generosity to support the growth of McLeod Health and are proud of the accomplishments they have witnessed over the years. They have watched McLeod expand from one hospital in Florence to a seven-hospital system throughout the region.

"We intend to provide our support for years to come," they replied when asked if they will continue their legacy of giving. "We feel we have received much more than we have given. It is healing in so many ways."

Dr. Ken Kammer and his wife Judy have invested in the work of the McLeod Health Foundation for more than three decades.

Experienced Grandparents CALM FEARS

Making Lives Brighter in Our Region

Bill and Mindy Taylor know firsthand the importance of having a local Children's Hospital in the region.

The couple recall the day they visited McLeod Children's Hospital to meet their grandson, John Luke Iseman. John Luke was a healthy full-term baby, but several hours after his birth, his blood sugar dropped. He was rushed to the McLeod Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU).

Bill and Mindy saw the fear their son and daughter-in-law experienced when staff took John Luke from their arms. It was the same anxiety Bill felt 39 years ago when his daughter, Olivia, had to be treated in the McLeod NICU.

"When Olivia was born, I was not prepared for the NICU," Bill said. "I was unable to hold her for two weeks. But, I knew that my little girl was receiving the best care possible. The doctors and staff were just fantastic."

Bill and Mindy encouraged their son and daughter-in-law, helping them understand that John Luke would receive excellent, state-of-the-art care.

And, they were right. Today, John Luke is an active two-year-old and the light of their lives.

The Taylors know the value of McLeod Children's Hospital more than most having had a daughter, and now a grandson, receive life-saving care from the McLeod NICU.

While the two have become generous supporters of McLeod Children's Hospital -- both personally and through Mindy's employer, Duke Energy -- they are quick to point out that they are not simply "donating" to a cause.

"I tell everyone that we are not just donating money; we are investing in the community," Mindy explained. "But, when it becomes very personal, as it did for us, that is when you can really see the fruits of your investments."

The Taylor family will always be grateful to McLeod Health Foundation donors who have also invested in excellent local care for children like Olivia and John Luke.

Mindy added, "We are so fortunate to have McLeod as a regional medical system. What would we do without them?"

VOLUNTEERS AND DONORS: Supporting Patients and the Frontline

Your Gifts Inspire a Dedicated Volunteer to Become a Generous Donor

For Robert Christopher, retirement offered him time to serve God by helping others.

He found his ideal role at McLeod Regional Medical Center volunteering for the McLeod Health Foundation.

"These last six years with McLeod have beat the other part to pieces," Robert said with a laugh, recalling his previous life as a commercial real estate appraiser. "Words cannot describe how fulfilling it is to visit with patients and make their day a little brighter."

Since 2014, Robert has volunteered in the orthopedic surgery unit. His duties are to assess the quality of patients' visits, making sure they are receiving everything they need to recover. The part of his role he enjoys the most are his devotionals with patients, many of whom are undergoing or recovering from major surgery.

"I let them know, 'God is with you all the time -- when you are at home, out shopping and certainly on the operating table,'" Robert said.

"God is never closer to you than when you are suffering."

In addition to his work in the hospital, Robert makes "Thank You" calls to McLeod Foundation donors.

"I was always aware of the important work funded by Foundation donors," explained Robert. "I also enjoy hearing their stories and why they felt moved to support McLeod."

Speaking with so many supporters of the Foundation quickly turned Robert and his wife, Paige, into generous donors.

"A large percentage of the calls I make are to supporters of McLeod Hospice and the HOPE (Helping Oncology Patients Everyday) Fund," Robert explained. "People are so grateful for these programs. It made me want to support them, too."

This year, Robert also made a significant contribution to the McLeod Foundation's COVID-19 Employee Relief Fund to assist employees facing hardships. Usually focused on helping patients through trying times, he decided that McLeod employees needed a boost as they battle the worst public health crisis in generations.

"These are our frontline workers," said Robert. "I have volunteered with them for six years. They are like family. I just wanted to help them at a time when they need it most."

Robert, like all volunteers and donors, are on the frontline for our patients, too.

A SERVANT'S HEART

McLeod Employees Helping Patients Through Giving

A servant's heart -- having compassion and the desire to help others no matter their circumstance -- is a key aspiration for all McLeod Health employees.

Nicky Littlejohn, Director of the McLeod Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU), and her team have the privilege of doing God's work with the smallest and often sickest babies.

"Our infants are tiny little warriors, and they deserve the highest level of care in the best environment we can provide them," Nicky passionately shared.

"We want to ensure our babies have everything they need to grow and develop so they can be discharged home with their families."

In her role as Director, Nicky submits grant requests to the McLeod Health Foundation for equipment and supplies that are vital for this specialized care.

Nicky Littlejohn, Director of the McLeod Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU), is one of thousands of McLeod Health employees who support the work of the McLeod Health Foundation.

The Foundation works in a truly unique way. When a true need is shared, the Foundation comes alongside the hospital's mission of providing excellent medical care and helps secure advanced medical technologies.

"The Foundation staff and their volunteers are dedicated to fundraising so the clinical staff can do their job caring for these precious newborns," Nicky explained.

Nicky is proud to join with thousands of McLeod employees who give regularly to help their patients through the McLeod Health Foundation.

This generous family of donors knows that McLeod Health is the region's choice for medical excellence for a reason. It is the commitment of all employees through their selfless, tireless efforts to ensure that every person, no matter their circumstance, receives care.

McLeod Foundation Employee Campaign Giving Results since 2016

Nicky affirms her motivation for giving: "Every sweet little face I see in the incubator inspires me to give. When I see moms hold their babies for the first time, I am inspired. Every time I see parents walk out of our doors with their precious babies, I am inspired."

"Giving to the Foundation is the least I can do in exchange for McLeod Health allowing me to be part of these families' journeys and to do the work that makes my heart happy."

She demonstrates a servant's heart in the work she does every day for these babies.

"Our infants are tiny little warriors, and they deserve the highest level of care in the best environment we can provide them. We want to ensure our babies have everything they need to grow and develop so they can be discharged home with their families."

- Nicky Littlejohn, Director of McLeod NICU

What is Your Legacy?

A Simple Life Lesson Provides for Generous Support

Your legacy is a distinctive part of you which is left behind as a reminder of who you are and what you care about.

As newlyweds, Dan and Jon Bozard learned a guiding life lesson from the minister who married them in Oklahoma City.

When receiving God's blessings, you should return ten percent for His work, save ten percent for retirement, and live on 80 percent. The young couple took this to heart as they moved to Dillon, South Carolina.

Dan established his career with Dillon Provision Company and Jon became the Executive Assistant to the Administrator of the local hospital, St. Eugene. They worked to begin giving back the first ten percent to their church. The owner of Dillon Provision also believed in providing an excellent retirement benefit. They were now able to begin investing in charitable organizations they cared about.

After receiving treatment for a rare blood disorder from Dr. Michael Pavy at McLeod Regional Medical Center in Florence, Dan's health soon became an important part of the couple's philanthropic focus. They passionately believe that Dr. Pavy saved Dan's life.

When St. Eugene became part of the McLeod Health network in 1997, Dan and Jon were thrilled that their local hospital would thrive. The couple's involvement with McLeod Health continued to grow.

While Jon spent her 30-year career working for Administrators at McLeod Health Dillon, Dan served as Chairman of the McLeod Health Dillon Advisory Board and assisted the McLeod Foundation with efforts to raise funds for a new, much needed Emergency Department.

Dan and Jon's connection with the McLeod Health Foundation includes McLeod Fellows, McLeod Angels and McLeod Men. They are generous donors supporting the McLeod Health Dillon Emergency Department Campaign, the Dr. Douglas Jenkins Cardiac Rehabilitation Fund and many special events.

As they began to consider their family's legacy, they recalled the simple lesson taught to them so many years before.

Recently, when they prepared their will, they decided to return ten percent for God's work, ten percent for the charitable organizations they care about, and 80 percent for their children.

In honor of the life-saving care given by Dr. Pavy, they have included the HOPE (Helping Oncology Patients Everyday) Fund in their estate plans.
